

The quick delivery

Ideas for deliveries. (Pick the number and the deliveries most suitable for the audience)

- Draw a drawing of... (Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, yourself, your favorite piece of furniture. Reject the 3-5 first drawings presented and ask them to try again. This will improve the quality and heighten the excitement)
- The person who can spell their name most clearly and the fastest, by only using their bodies.
- The person folding the coolest paper airplane the fastest.
- The person holding the most pieces of paper on with their body, without the pieces of paper touching.
- The person who can write the funniest joke in the chat first.
- The person writing the names of 4 countries starting with the letter B in the chat.
- The person getting a glass of water first.
- The person drinking a glass of water first.
- The person who can find out the total number of Facebook users and write the result in the chat first.
- The person who can provide the answer to the following riddle in the chat first: How can you throw a ball 20 yards, and make it come back to you without hitting anything? Answer: Straight up in the air.
- The first person who can show me that they can touch their nose with their tongue.
- The person who can write the alphabet in the correct chronological order in the chat the fastest.
- The person who can show me something yellow, green, blue, and something red on their screen the fastest.
- The person who can show me 3 different pairs of shoes the fastest.
- The person showing how to do the best electric boogie.
- The person folding a great paper hat the fastest and wearing it.
- The first person getting a string/shoelace and tying a bowline knot.
- The first person writing the answer to the following riddle in the chat: What belongs to you but is mostly used by others? Answer: My name.
- The person doing 10 squat jumps first.
- The first person showing an entire plant on their screen.
- The first person writing the answer to the following riddle in the chat: Donald's father has three sons. One is named Huey; the other is Dewey. What is the name of the third son? Answer: Donald.
- The first person to write in the chat the name of their favorite lunch.
- The person who can imitate a flying bird the best.

